<sup>1</sup> The Absa House Price Index is based on the total purchase price of houses in the 80-400m<sup>2</sup> size category valued at R2,9 million or less in 2007 in respect of which loan applications were approved by Absa. Prices are smoothed in an attempt to exclude the distorting seasonal factors and outliers in the data
