I Introduction

1. Purpose of sector classification

This guide describes the institutional sector classification to be applied by organisations participating in South African Reserve Bank surveys, which are used in the compilation and publication of macroeconomic statistics. For instance, in terms of regulation 59(4) as published in the Government Gazette No. 30629 of 1 January 2008, banks shall provide an institutional breakdown of liabilities and assets (Form BA 900) in accordance with the information contained in this guide. Members of the formal exchanges also classify their clients who participate in trades in accordance with the framework set by the guide (see Table 1). The guide provides information on the institutional sector classification of transactors engaging in economic activity such as production, consumption, saving and investment, paying particular attention to the classification of issuers and holders of securities, recipients and suppliers of credit, and buyers and sellers of financial assets.

The Institutional Sector Classification Guide for South Africa divides institutional sectors according to the guidelines of the 2008 System of National Accounts (SNA). The SNA consists of a coherent, consistent and integrated set of macroeconomic accounts, balance sheets and tables based on a set of internationally agreed concepts, definitions, classifications and accounting rules. A core element of this publication is the Institutional Sector Classification which is presented in Section II.

The Research Department of the South African Reserve Bank (the Bank) regularly collects financial data in respect of the major institutional sectors from financial institutions such as banks, insurers and pension funds, and from other organisations in the public and the private sector. This information is used to compile macroeconomic accounts for the analysis of, inter alia, the flow of funds between sectors, establishing which sectors require which types of financing and which sectors provide in these needs.

To enable the reader to get an overview of the public sector at a glance, all the public-sector institutions contained in the Institutional Sector Classification Guide for South Africa have been repeated in Appendix A. The lists of institutions related to the public sector in Appendix A serve as the reference list of “RSA public-sector bodies” for the purposes of the regulations related to counterparty capital-adequacy risk weighting in terms of the Mutual Banks Act, 1993 (Act No. 124 of 1993) and the Banks Act, 1990 (Act No. 94 of 1990) respectively. The original source of the lists of the public-sector institutional units is the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa Act, 1996 (Act No. 108 of 1996) and the Public Finance Management Act, 1999 (Act No. 1 of 1999 as amended by Act No. 29 of 1999), also published at www.treasury.gov.za.

The economic activities in which institutional sectors or units engage can be further classified according to the Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities (SIC), which is presented in Appendix B, Table B1 and Table B2 of this publication.

2. Institutional units and sectors

The total economy consists of institutional sectors, which are an aggregation of institutional units. An institutional unit is an economic entity that can in its own right own assets, incur liabilities and engage in economic activity and transactions with other entities. Institutional units are either legal or social entities, or households, and can be divided between resident and non-resident units. An institutional unit is a resident of the Republic of South Africa when it has a centre of economic interest in South Africa, that is, when it has premises within the economic territory of South Africa from where it engages or intends to engage indefinitely or over a finite but long period (normally more than one year) in significant economic activity.

All resident institutional units are grouped into four main mutually exclusive institutional sectors on the basis of similarity of principal economic objectives, functions and behaviour. These institutional sectors are the

- (i) financial corporate sector;
- (ii) non-financial corporate sector;
- (iii) general government sector (including social security funds); and
- (iv) household sector (including non-profit institutions serving households).

Corporations in the financial and non-financial sectors are resident institutional units whose principal activity is the market production of goods and services at economically significant prices with the intent to generate a profit or financial gain for their shareholders. Shareholders collectively own these institutional units and have the authority to appoint directors responsible for their general management. Quasi-corporations are unincorporated enterprises each with their own separate set of financial accounts, and are treated as corporations, classified as institutional units separate from the units to which they legally belong. Therefore, quasi-corporations owned by households or government units are grouped with corporations in the financial or non-financial corporate sectors. In compiling the financial corporate sector, the Monetary and Financial Statistics Manual (MFSM) is used, which provides a set of tools for identifying, classifying and recording stocks and flows of financial assets and liabilities.

Institutional units in the general government sector are unique legal entities established by the political process with legislative, judicial or executive authority over other units within a given area. The general government sector consists of the institutional units of central, provincial and local government inclusive of

- social security funds at all levels of government; and
- non-market, non-profit institutions that are controlled and mainly financed by government units.

However, general government excludes public corporations, even when government units own all the equity of such corporations, and also excludes quasi-corporations owned and controlled by government units. Unincorporated enterprises owned by government units that are not quasi-corporations (and therefore do not have separate accounts) remain an integral part of those government units and are therefore included in the general government sector. In order to analyse the economic impact of the general government, the principles of the Government Finance Statistics Manual (GFS2001) are applied. The primary purpose of the GFS Manual is to provide a comprehensive, conceptual and accounting framework suitable for analysing and evaluating fiscal policy, especially the performance of the general government sector and the broader public sector of any country.

A household is an individual or small group of individuals sharing the same living accommodation, and pooling some or all of their income and wealth while consuming goods and services such as housing and food collectively. Defined as an institutional sector, the household sector includes unincorporated business enterprises without own separate sets of financial accounts owned by households, whether market producers or producing for own final use. Only those household-owned unincorporated market enterprises that constitute quasi-corporations since they have own separate sets of financial accounts are treated as separate institutional units.

To complete the set of macroeconomic accounts, economic activity and transactions between resident and non-resident units need to be recorded. From an accounting perspective it is convenient to describe the rest of the world as an institutional sector. Non-resident institutional units transacting with resident institutional units are grouped into the foreign sector or the rest of the world. The balance of payments (BoP), which is a statistical statement that systematically summarises, for a specific period, the economic transactions of an economy with the rest of the world, is compiled to present this information.

All resident institutional units are also grouped into the private sector and the public sector. The private sector consists of all resident institutional units not controlled or owned by institutional units in the general government sector. The public sector consists of all institutional units in the general government sector, and corporate sector institutional units in the financial and non-financial sectors owned or controlled by units in the general government sector. The public sector consists of the - public financial corporate sector;

- public non-financial corporate sector; and
- general government sector.

II Institutional sector classification

1. Financial corporate sector

The financial corporate sector includes all privately and publicly owned resident institutional units whose principal activity is financial intermediation or auxiliary financial activities related to financial intermediation. It includes non-profit institutions engaged in market production of a financial nature. Financial intermediation is the incurrence of own-account liabilities to acquire financial assets through engaging in financial transactions, and channelling funds from lenders to borrowers. The financial sector consists of the following institutional units:

1.1 Monetary authority (public sector)

The monetary authority consists of the South African Reserve Bank, the central bank of South Africa, governed in terms of the South African Reserve Bank Act, 1989 (Act No. 90 of 1989), and its subsidiary, the Corporation for Public Deposits, governed in terms of the Corporation for Public Deposits Act, 1984 (Act No. 46 of 1984). The central bank, among other things, issues banknotes and coin, conducts monetary policy, provides credit to banks, manages South Africa's foreign-exchange reserves, supervises and regulates the banking sector, and acts as lender of last resort to the banking system. The Corporation for Public Deposits accepts call deposits from the public sector and invests the funds in short-term money-market instruments including Treasury bills.

1.2 Banks<sup>1</sup>

A bank is a public company (Ltd) registered as a bank in terms of the Banks Act, 1990 (Act No. 94 of 1990). The business of a bank is the solicitation and advertising for, and the acceptance of, deposits from the general public on a regular basis and the utilisation of deposits accepted. For the full definition of the "business of a bank" see the Banks Act.

1.3.3 Pension and provident funds

Pension and provident funds are established in terms of the Pension Funds Act, 1956 (Act No. 24 of 1956 as amended). The list of pension and provident funds is only partial and the * indicates pension and provident funds provided for in Industrial Council Agreements. An autonomous pension fund is a separate institutional unit with own assets and liabilities engaging in transactions for own account.

1.3.3.1 Private-sector pension and provident funds (October 2011)

This is a partial list of major private-sector pension funds. These pension funds are autonomous from the private-sector institutional units that created them.

1.3.3.2 Public-sector pension and provident funds (October 2011)

Public-sector pension and provident funds are autonomous pension funds controlled and managed by institutional units in the public sector. The determining factors include any defined benefit arrangements, and government guarantees and control over the funds. Public-sector pension and provident funds in this guide include the following official funds administered by the Department of Finance, the Post Office, Telkom and Transnet:

Government Employees Pension Fund (GEPF) – www.gepf.co.za
 Post Office Pension Fund
 Telkom Retirement Fund
 Transnet Defined Contribution Fund
 Transnet Pension Fund
 Transnet Second Defined Benefit Fund

1.4 Other financial intermediaries

Other financial intermediaries raise funds – but not in the form of deposits – and then acquire financial assets. These institutions are involved in the financing of investment and capital formation.

1.4.1 Collective investment schemes

Collective investment schemes include schemes that invest in securities, property and participation bonds in terms of the Collective Investment Schemes Control Act, 2002 (Act No. 45 of 2002).

1.4.1.1 Money-market securities unit trusts (October 2011)

The business of a money-market unit trust (open-end trust) entails the pooling of investors' funds with a manager for investment on their behalf in a spread of predominantly money-market instruments.

1.4.1.2 Non-money-market securities unit trusts

The business of a non-money market unit trust (open-end trust) entails the pooling of investors' funds with a manager for investment on their behalf in a spread of assets such as bonds, shares, units of other unit trusts and money-market instruments. In this instance money-market instruments are not the dominant type of securities held.

1.4.4 Public-sector financial intermediaries (as at 31 March 2010)

Public-sector financial intermediaries are institutional units that are owned or controlled by institutional units in the general government sector excluding the monetary authority (paragraph 1.1) and public-sector institutions included as banks (paragraph 1.2). The Companies Act, 2008 specifies that the name of a State Owned Company be followed by the abbreviation “SOC Ltd”.

www.treasury.gov.za

1.4.4.1 Public Investment Corporation (PIC)

The entity Public Investment Corporation (PIC) invests funds on behalf of public-sector entities, including the Government Employees Pension Fund. The PIC is a public entity established as a corporation on 1 April 2005 in accordance with the Public Investment Corporation Act, 2004 and is regulated in terms of the Public Finance Management Act, 1999 (Act No. 1 of 1999 as amended by Act No. 29 of 1999). The PIC is a state-owned entity and also operates under the Financial Advisory and Intermediary Services Act, 2002 (Act No. 37 of 2002).

Before its establishment as a corporation, the PIC was known as the ‘Public Investment Commissioners’, also abbreviated as the PIC.

www.pic.gov.za

1.4.4.2 Other national government financial intermediaries

Central Energy Fund (Pty) Limited (CEF)	Khula Enterprises
Development Bank of Southern Africa (DBSA)	National Empowerment Fund National Housing Finance Corporation Ltd
Industrial Development Corporation of SA Ltd (IDC)

This classification includes any subsidiary or entity under the ownership or control of the above public entities that is engaged in financial intermediation.

1.4.4.3 Provincial government financial intermediaries

Ithala Development Finance Corporation	Mpumalanga Housing Finance Company
Limpopo Economic Development Enterprise (LimDev)

This classification includes any subsidiary or entity under the ownership or control of the above public entities that is engaged in financial intermediation.

1.4.5 Holding companies

A holding company owns a group of subsidiary companies. All holding companies, irrespective of the group’s predominant activity, are classified as part of the financial corporate sector. However, the following sub-classification is made:

1.4.5.1 Bank holding companies<sup>2</sup>

www.reservebank.co.za

Absa Group Ltd	Capitec Bank Holdings Ltd
African Bank Investments Ltd	FirstRand Ltd
Albaraka Banking Group	Grindrod Financial Holdings Ltd

<sup>2</sup> The list contains the latest information as published in the Bank Supervision Department Annual Report 2010.

Investec Ltd

Mercantile Bank Holdings Ltd

National Bank of Greece

Nedbank Group Ltd

Pitcairn's Finance Sasfin Holdings Ltd

Standard Bank Group Ltd

Teba Bank Controlling Company Ltd

1.4.5.2 Other financial holding companies

This can be defined as holding companies where the predominant activity of the group of companies whose shares are held is of a financial, insurance or financial auxiliary nature, excluding those under paragraph 1.4.5.1.

1.4.5.3 Non-financial holding companies

Non-financial holding companies hold shares in a group of subsidiary companies where the majority of the activities of the companies in the group is non-financial in nature; the principal activity of the holding company is owning the group.

1.5 Financial auxiliaries

Financial auxiliaries are institutions such as brokers whose primary activity is to facilitate financial intermediation, but who do not primarily perform an intermediation role themselves. Most members of formal exchanges can be classified as financial auxiliaries. However, some members such as banks and co-operatives, perform another activity as a primary activity, and are thus classified under the institutional sector that corresponds with their primary activity.

1.5.1 Private-sector financial auxiliaries

1.5.1.1 Members of the formal exchanges<sup>3</sup>

The JSE Limited (JSE) is the only formal, licensed stock exchange in South Africa, governed in terms of the Securities Act, 2004 where members of the JSE buy and sell securities on behalf of clients as agent or principal. The JSE comprises an equity, equity derivatives, commodity derivatives, currency derivatives and interest rate market. JSE membership is available for the following categories, namely equity, commodity derivatives, equity derivatives and bonds. Only members whose primary activity is of a financial auxiliary nature are classified here.

www.jse.co.za

1.5.1.2 Trust companies (October 2011)

Trust companies are corporations whose main function is that of trustee administration of trust assets.

1.5.2 Public-sector financial auxiliaries

Public-sector financial auxiliaries such as financial supervisory authorities. This will include the Financial Services Board. However, the South African Reserve Bank's supervisory functions falls under 1.1 as part of the Monetary authority.

2. Non-financial corporate sector

The non-financial corporate sector includes all resident privately and publicly owned institutional units whose principal activity is the production of goods and non-financial services. The non-financial corporate sector consists of the following institutional units:

2.1 Private non-financial corporate sector

Private-sector corporations are companies previously registered under the Republic of South Africa's Companies Act, 1973, and more recently in terms of the Companies Act, 2008. Private-sector non-financial companies are legal entities separate from their owners and are principally engaged in the production of market goods and non-financial services at economically significant prices with the intent to generate profit or financial gain for the shareholders.

2.1.1 Non-profit institutions serving the non-financial corporate sector

Non-profit institutions are legal entities engaged in the production of goods and services without the intent to generate income or financial gain directly for those that finance or control them. Examples of this kind of institution are Sacob and all industry associations serving the non-financial corporate sector. The Companies Act, 2008 stipulates that a non-profit institution's name needs to be followed by the abbreviation "NPC".

2.1.2 Co-operatives

Co-operatives are legal entities created by producers for the purpose of marketing collective output, and any profits raised are distributed in accordance with agreed rules.

2.1.3 Close corporations

Close corporations are private-sector entities registered under the Close Corporations Act, 1984, and are obliged to incorporate the abbreviation "CC" as the last entry in their name. The new Companies Act, 2008 stipulates that it will not be possible to register any new close corporations, nor may companies be converted into close corporations. Close corporations currently in existence will be able to exist indefinitely, and the Close Corporations Act will be brought into line with legislation on private companies. Where a close corporation is primarily involved in financial activity, it should be classified under the relevant grouping within the financial corporate sector.

2.1.4 Other private-sector companies

This classification includes all other companies in the private sector previously registered under the Companies Act, 1984, or more recently under the Companies Act, 2008, (i.e., organisations that are required by law to incorporate the abbreviation(s) "Ltd", "(Pty) Ltd" or "Inc" as the last entry/entries in their names), but excluding all institutions listed in the financial sector.

2.2 Public non-financial corporate sector

The public non-financial corporate sector consists of corporations where the principal activity is the production of market goods and non-financial services and these institutional units are owned or controlled by units in the general government sector. The Companies Act, 2008 specifies that a State Owned Company be followed by the abbreviation "SOC Ltd".

Identification of the general government and public sectors<sup>5</sup>: A decision tree for government units and other public units

The procedure for evaluating economic entities in an economy and grouping them inside or outside the public sector and its subsectors is presented in the form of a decision tree in Figure 2.

The starting point for sectorising an economy is to identify the residency of entities operating in the economy. For each resident entity, the following steps should be taken:

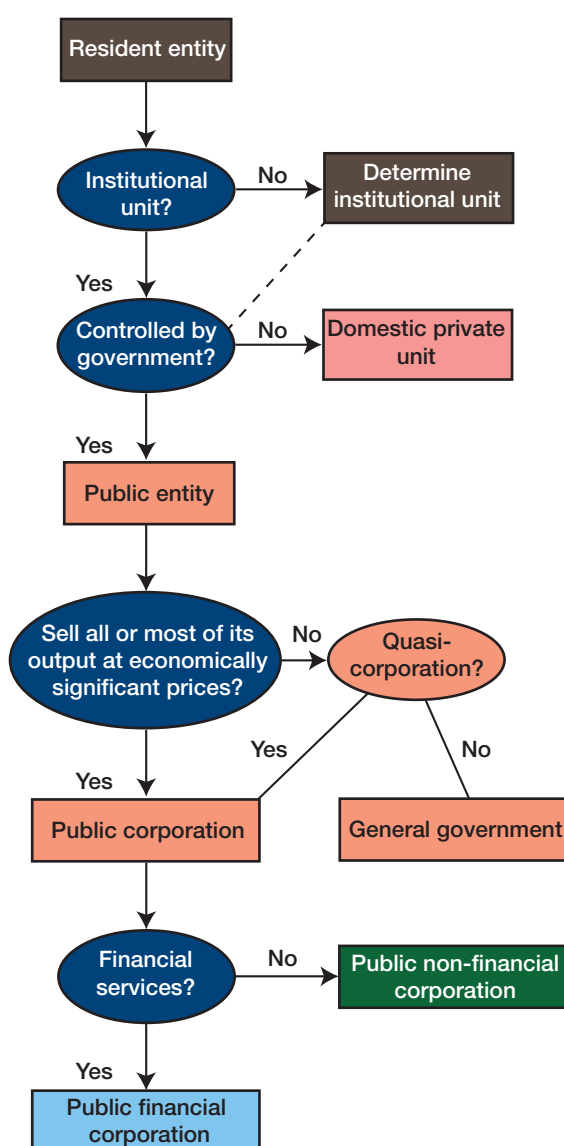

- Identify whether the entity constitutes an institutional unit, that is, is it capable, in its own right, of owning assets, incurring liabilities, and engaging in economic activities and transactions with other entities? If not, the entity should be classified with the unit that controls it.
- Identify whether the institutional unit belongs in the private or in the public sector. This involves determining whether the unit is a government unit, or is controlled by a government unit or public corporation. If so, it is a public unit and part of the public sector. If not, it is part of the private sector.
- Determine for each public-sector unit whether it is a market or non-market producer, that is, does it dispose of all or most of its output at economically significant prices?

- If it is a market producer, it is to be classified as a public corporation.
- If it is a non-market producer, it is necessary to determine whether the unit includes any unincorporated activity that should be considered to be a quasi-corporation.
  - If so, the quasi-corporation should be classified as a public corporation.
  - If not, the unit is a general government unit and should be classified in the general government sector.
- Determine for each public corporation (and public quasi-corporation) whether it provides financial services.
  - If so, it is a public financial corporation.
  - If not, it is a public nonfinancial corporation.

3. General government sector

The general government sector consists of institutional units that are legal entities with political responsibilities established through the political process mainly to produce non-market goods and services for individual and public consumption, and to redistribute income and wealth. These institutional units invest in assets and fund activities by levying taxes and issuing financial instruments. Some units owned by units in the general government sector may also be engaged in the production of goods and services for which economically significant prices are charged. The general government sector consists of the institutional units listed on National Treasury's website:

www.treasury.gov.za

3.1 Central government

Central government consists of national government departments and ministries and institutional units not classified as quasi-corporations owned by central government. Central government institutional units are established in terms of the following legislation:

3.3.3 Other local government units

This classification includes unincorporated entities not classified as quasi-corporations.

4. Household sector

A household consists of an individual or small group of individuals sharing the same living accommodation, pooling some or all of their income and wealth, while consuming goods and services collectively. The household sector consists of the following institutional units:

4.1 Households

Individuals are members of a household and are not treated as separate institutional units.

4.2 Unincorporated business enterprises of households

Unincorporated business enterprises of households comprise households engaging in market production as one-man businesses or sole proprietorships or partnerships. They are legal entities but are not organised in the form of a company, and the household and business accounts cannot be separated. The one-man business or sole proprietorship can be with or without employees with the latter being own-account workers.

4.3 Non-profit institutions serving households

Non-profit institutions serving households (NPISHs) are legal or social entities that provide goods and services to households free of charge or at economically insignificant prices but that are neither controlled nor mainly financed by government. NPISHs include welfare organisations, aid societies, clubs, non-profit hospitals and schools, churches, trade unions, stokvels, political parties and such companies previously registered under Section 21 of the Companies Act, 1973 and now according to the new Companies Act, 2008 the name should be followed by the abbreviation "NPC".

4.4 Private trusts

Private trusts are assets of individuals and estates administered by, among others, banks, trust companies and attorneys on their behalf.

4.5 Friendly societies (October 2011)

Friendly societies are governed in terms of the Friendly Societies Act, 1956 (Act No. 25 of 1956). A friendly society can be defined as a formal mutual organisation existing with the purpose of providing its members or their relatives with benefits, relief or maintenance when in financial difficulty due to, among other things, sickness, death, unemployment and retirement.

5. Foreign sector/rest of the world

Non-resident institutional units transacting with resident institutional units are grouped into the foreign sector or the rest of the world. The classification of the foreign sector is based on the distinction between residents and non-residents. The concept of residency is based on the centre of economic interest and not on nationality or purely legal criteria. An institutional unit is considered to be a resident of a country when it has an economic interest in a country, that is, when it has a location (dwelling or premises) within the economic territory of a country from where it intends to engage indefinitely or over a finite but lengthy period of time (longer than a year) in economic activity on a significant scale. The economic territory of a country consists of the geographic territory administered by government within which persons, goods and capital move freely inclusive of airspace, territorial waters and enclaves.

An institutional unit or enterprise is therefore a resident of the Republic of South Africa when it has an economic interest in South Africa, that is, when it has premises within the economic territory of South Africa from where it engages or intends to engage indefinitely or over a finite but lengthy period of time in significant economic activity in South Africa. The foreign sector or non-residents could similarly be defined as institutional units or enterprises with a centre of economic interest outside the borders of the Republic of South Africa.

Branches and subsidiaries of foreign enterprises domiciled in South Africa are therefore classified as resident institutional units. In this instance, the foreign enterprise or non-resident owner is classified as part of the foreign sector, while the foreign-owned subsidiary or branch is classified as a South African resident. By contrast, branches and subsidiaries of South African companies domiciled in the rest of world are classified as non-resident or part of the foreign sector.

5.1 Foreign financial corporate sector

5.1.1 Financial companies listed on the JSE Limited and classified as non-resident

Financial companies with a dual listing, both on the JSE Limited and on another exchange, but domiciled in a country other than the Republic of South Africa are classified as non-resident.

Appendix B     Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities

An institutional unit (an enterprise such as a company) may be engaged in different kinds of production activities in different locations, producing various kinds of goods and services. For the analysis of production, it is necessary to use a more homogeneous unit than an enterprise. The unit is an establishment, defined as an enterprise or part of an enterprise situated in one location and engaged in mainly one type of production activity, which is its principal activity. An establishment can also be engaged in secondary activities, which generate a minor part of its production, or ancillary activities, which are production not intended for use outside the enterprise. An enterprise can consist of more than one establishment, but an establishment can belong to only one enterprise.

Based on the type of activity described in terms of a set of inputs, a production process and a set of outputs, establishments are grouped together into industries. An industry is defined as a group of establishments engaged in the same, or similar, kinds of production activity. Industries are classified according to the 1993 edition of the Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities (SIC). The SIC is based on the 1990 edition of the International Standard Industrial Classification (ISIC), with suitable adaptations for local conditions. The SIC classification refers to the principal activity of establishments.

It is possible to classify institutional units by institutional sector class and by standard industrial class. However, institutional units can only broadly be classified into industries according to their principal class of product produced or service rendered. An example of the SIC classification of institutional units by organisation reporting to the South African Reserve Bank is the classification by banks of loans, advances and discounts according to major divisions, as provided by banks on returns to the Registrar of Banks. The major divisions (one-digit level) and divisions (two-digit level) of the SIC are shown in Table B1.

In the case of individuals and non-producing households there is no SIC classification as the SIC caters only for producing units. To address this problem, sector 0 of the SIC is further subdivided into divisions (two-digit level), major groups (three-digit level) and groups (four-digit level), as indicated in Table B2, for instance, where a reporting organisation needs to assign SIC codes to all its counterparties.

The complete SIC is published in the Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities and can be obtained from:

Statistics South Africa
Private Bag X44
Pretoria
0001

8 The industries are classified according to the Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities (SIC), fifth edition. It is based on the third revision of the International Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities (ISIC), with suitable adaptations for local conditions.
